

On The Great White Way

NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

Today we are leaving the "Gay" out of "The Gay White Way."

Horace G. Merrick is dead.

Horace G. Merrick was one of those clean men who, identifying themselves with the activities of the "loop district," gave to it the influence of a clean personality, a charitable understanding of "life as she is lived," and a brotherly and comforting sympathy with all to whom life has turned a cold shoulder.

Today we have with us Q. G. Merrick, father of this young man whom La Crosse has come to appreciate for his sterling virtues, come among us on the sad errand of his son's funeral. The father is one of those optimists who, even in his bereavement, cannot lose sight of the glory of the young manhood now lost to his bosom, in the grief of a temporary separation. It is not difficult to see in this full-voiced, broad-chested man the father of the son from whose native strength the confinement of scholarship had taken nothing, and it is these cases of death interrupting the extraordinary vigor of strong vitality that are hardest to reconcile with the philosophy of Christian religion.

Let us not inquire. Let us, with this bereaved father, seek the consolation of a life well spent, a death well met, and bow in piety to the decree of immutable Providence.

Capt. W. A. Thompson, of whom the brilliant young engineer has been a valued employee, recited the benediction which should be the world's verdict of Merrick, when, with tears in his eyes, he said:

"I cannot speak of it."

The emotion that defies language is the fullest, excepting that of the father whose grief cannot becloud his appreciation of a worthy son.

We pause here, for in having met the father in the intimacy of his emotions we have neglected man's feeble attempt to interpret the feeling he cannot understand—that of the young wife, God and the women know what is in her heart, and to men is given only the privilege of commiseration.

Those who love to laugh, those whose bosoms swell with the thrill of music, have this week another occasion for the sober thought and word of sympathy.

Holly Shepard, with a smile on his lips and a tear in his eye, depicting the La Crosse man's shape. The little woman who is at once his inspiration and his critic, is bravely facing the happy chorus whose song and jest are to inspire applause and laughter.

Two weeks ago these two buried their baby, an only child, a girl of two years. This is the greatest tragedy of the actor's life—that he must impersonate joy while grief grips his soul.

Knowing these things, as you join the laugh which their irresistible comedy inspires, as your soul responds to the appeal of beautiful music, shed a tear to join the flood of humanity's sympathy that pours onward to drown the fires of tragedy searing the souls of men and women, and when again you laugh, give thanks for that resilience that ever lifts us from the valley of despair.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lapitz Observe Fiftieth Anniversary of Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lapitz are celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home, 915 South Fifth street, today. Mr. Lapitz is 72 years of age and his wife 70.

As the oldest employee of the Michel Brewing company, Mr. Lapitz received a letter from Carl Michel, president of the concern, this morning, congratulating him. Mr. and Mrs. Lapitz were born in Bohemia and were married there, coming to this country and to La Crosse in 1860. Mr. Lapitz was a member of No. 3 volunteer fire department. Five children, Mrs. Joseph Wustera and Mrs. Joseph Probst of this city; Mrs. Frank Weiss of Minneapolis; Joseph Lapitz of Richmond, Va., and Charles Lapitz of Jacksonville, Fla., are attending the celebration. One brother will attend.

A supper and reception will be held at the home tonight, when the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lapitz will attend.

OLD STYLE FROM BACK IN FAVOR

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 1.—Two important pieces of legislation were passed by the new student conference at its first meeting. The first is the restoration of the old-time prom, with the house parties and elaborate outlay of money. The second was the forbidding of any freshman entering a saloon during his first year in Madison, and granting the power to upper classmen to kick them out if found there, and also to prosecute them before the student court.

POLICE PUZZLED BY RESEMBLANCE

Arrest Wabasha Boy Wanted in Milwaukee but Are Not Positive It Isn't Brother

A striking resemblance is causing trouble for two boys from Wabasha, Minn., and has furnished a puzzle for the police departments of La Crosse and Milwaukee.

On a warrant sworn out by a girl in Milwaukee Archie Sanzen was arrested here by the police. He denied all knowledge of the offense with which he is charged.

He admits he has a brother Arthur Sanzen, and while the police are holding Archie they are not certain whether it is he or his brother who is wanted in Milwaukee.

Today Sheriff Lawrence McGreal of Milwaukee county arrived to take the youth back to the Cream City. He, in turn, was puzzled by the resemblance between the two boys and left for home, alone. He took, however, pictures of the two boys and will present them to the girl who swore out the complaint in an effort to determine which of the two the law is seeking.

OPEN CUE TOURNAMENT THIS AFTERNOON

The first game of the annual straight rail billiard tournament of the La Crosse club will be played this afternoon at 4:30. The players have arranged in four classes and their handicaps fixed. Following are the games to be played this afternoon: Class A—Schweizer, 300, vs. Marboe, 81. Class B—Keyes, 80, vs. Gund, 68. Class C—Curtis, 55, vs. Whelpley, 44. Class D—Schweizer, 35, vs. Maboney, 27. Eighty men have been entered in the tournament.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX IN EFFECT

Law Becomes Operative Today with Initial Step Toward Enforcement

AFFECTS FEW IN WISCONSIN

Only One Family in Sixty Here Will Be Required to Pay to the Government

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Its first real taste of the new income tax law was given the country today when provisions for deduction of the tax "at its source" were put into effect by the treasury department.

The treasury department regulations for deduction "at its source" of the new income tax are "balled up" in many particulars, according to statements today of members of congress who framed the law.

It leaked out today that the regulations, which have been puzzling bankers all over the country, probably will be materially amended. For the sake of party harmony among the administration democrats, congressmen who insist the department's rules are confused and erroneous, refused to be quoted. But privately, they stated that the department itself is "at sea" regarding its interpretation of the collection rules.

Plans for deduction, "at the source," of the tax on bonds and mortgages and the exemptions ordered by the department are incorrect, it is asserted.

Heat arguments are being exchanged by treasury officials and the income tax "experts" of congress today as a result. The congressmen declare the regulations must be modified, while the department heads "stand pat" upon their interpretation of the law.

Banks, corporations and others responsible for payment of bonds, dividends and salaries are principally affected by initial enforcement of the law today. Ordinary citizens having income of $3,000 annually, if it single at $4,000 if married, will not be required to "pony up" until next spring.

Hits He in Wisconsin.—The federal income tax became operative today. According to Prof. T. S. Adams, a member of the state tax commission, it will touch only the upper or rich 10 per cent of those subject to the Wisconsin income tax law. This means perhaps one family out of 60 he declares. He does not believe it will affect the success of Wisconsin law.

"Those residents of the state who are called upon to pay the federal tax, moreover, will for the most part only be subjected to a rate of 1 per cent," said Prof. Adams today. "The federal tax is 1 per cent upon the first $20,000 of taxable income; 2 per cent on income between $20,000 and $50,000; 3 per cent on income between $50,000 and $75,000; 4 per cent on income between $75,000 and $100,000; 5 per cent on income between $100,000 and $250,000; 6 per cent on income between $250,000 and $500,000; 7 per cent on amounts in excess of $500,000 a year. The number who will pay under the federal tax more than 1 per cent per year is inappreciable, and 1 per cent added to the Wisconsin tax is not sufficiently material to affect the success of the Wisconsin law. On the continent of Europe the imposition of state and local income taxes on the same basis is quite common, and the aggregate rate frequently exceeds that which is possible under the Wisconsin and federal income taxes combined. A stray millionaire or two may perhaps find it expedient to take up his residence elsewhere, but even he will have to take care that he does not land in some community where stocks and bonds are subject to the property tax, a much heavier burden than the Wisconsin income tax.

"The federal law seems to me on the whole admirable. It makes great, perhaps excessive, use of the device of collection at the source. A certain amount of unnecessary complexity is caused by this fact. The average taxpayer is honest, and if the federal government trusted a little to the honesty of the taxpayer, I might have dispensed with the most irritating and cumbersome parts of its administrative machinery. In order to make the collection at source, debtors paying interest upon bonds, mortgages and similar obligations are required to withhold the tax from interest payments due after Nov. 1, 1913. If such payments are due to creditors who, by reason of the $3,000 exemption, would not be subject to any tax, it would seem to be desirable for the creditors in question to notify the debtor or mortgagee at once. As I understand it, this is practically the only part of the law which goes into effect on Nov. 1. Corporations and individuals will for the most part not be called upon to make returns until March 1, 1914, except when they wish to make report upon the basis of a business year other than the calendar year.

PARTY FUNDS SAVE REIGN OF HUERTA

Catholic Factions Lend Dictator Two Millions to Meet Payroll

BLANQUET DECLINES PRESIDENCY

War Minister Says that if He and Huerta Are Declared Elected He Won't Serve

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—The opponents of General Huerta today were frankly chagrined to learn that the Catholic party loaned the government $2,000,000 with which to pay federal employees. Paymasters received funds late yesterday. When the regular pay-day fell two days ago, no money was on hand and it was hoped by Huerta's enemies that the government employees would become disaffected and that Huerta would lose prestige.

General Aureliano Blanquet, war minister, last night told the newspaper men that if congress declared the election valid and Huerta and himself the winners, he would refuse to be president, should Huerta step out. He declined to give any reasons for his announcement.

Foreign Minister Nobeta today said Blanquet would have no recourse but to assume the presidency if he were duly elected vice president and the executive chair became vacant.

Lind Meets German.—VERA CRUZ, Nov. 1.—John Lind, United States special envoy in Mexico, today informally met Herr Von Heintze, German minister, who came here primarily to confer with the commanders of the German warships Bremen and Hertha. It was understood that the German diplomat gave Lind confidential information on the situation at Mexico City.

With General Felix Diaz on his way to Yucatan, the Diaz incident was today regarded as closed and the city was very quiet.

Congress Does Not Meet.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Advices received here today from John Lind and Charge O'Shaughnessy in Mexico stated that there would probably be no session of the new Mexican congress today. The official reason assigned was that the votes cast at last Sunday's election had not been canvassed. The real reason is believed to be that Provisional President Huerta has not yet decided on his plans.

Mexico City and Vera Cruz were today reported quiet. Until the Mexican congress organizes this government will maintain a passive attitude on that republic's affairs unless some outrage takes place which will force the administration's hand.

GALVESTON, Texas, Nov. 1.—Nineteen American refugees from around Tampico arrived here this afternoon on the deck of an oil barge. There were twelve men, five women and two children in the party and they had no shelter from the north-er which they faced four days, but endured the exposure rather than remain longer in Mexico.

TIGER BEATS YALE

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 1.—Princeton won the annual cross country meet here from Yale today by a score of 21 to 34. Captain Morrison of Princeton led the field until the last hundreds yards. Then he dropped back and his team mate, Barnett, finished first in thirty-two minutes, five seconds.

BURIAL IN COUNTRY.—Funeral services for Miss Albertine Thurow, who died Thursday night at her home, 1113 South Ninth street, will be held at noon tomorrow from the residence, after which the body will be taken to Bostwick Valley, where short services will be held and burial will take place.

LAWRENCE VS. MARQUETTE.—MILWAUKEE, Nov. 1.—With fans who were confident that their idols would make a good showing against the heavier team the Lawrence college team arrived here for their game this afternoon with Marquette university.

GOMPERS WON'T LEAD BALL WITH PANKHURST WIFE WON'T LET HIM

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, will not lead the grand march at the annual Woman's Trade Union league ball tonight with Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst—not of Mrs. Samuel Gompers knows it.

The labor chief, arriving in Chicago today an hour after a crowd of 1,500 suffragists had given the British militant a noisy welcome, was besieged by reporters.

"Mrs. Raymond Robbins of the Women's Trade Union league, has advertised that you and Mrs. Pankhurst are to lead the grand march tonight," they told Gompers. "Is it true?"

Gompers stared blankly at the reporters, and then at Mrs. Gompers, who is accompanying him on his trip to Seattle for the national convention. "I don't know," he answered slowly. "That's the first I'd heard of it."

The reporters turned to Mrs. Gompers. "Well, I'll tell you," she said. "Mr. Gompers is NOT going to lead the grand march at any ball with Mrs. Pankhurst or any other woman. If Mr. Gompers leads a march, he will lead it with me."

The labor head gazed helplessly at the reporters. "I hardly think I'll have time to attend the ball," he said. "You see, we leave at 10:15 tonight."

While Mrs. Gompers was settling the question as to the grand march at the union ball, Mrs. Pankhurst, surrounded by a crowd of suffragettes at the Hotel La Salle, was answering a stream of questions about the suffrage movement in England.

Her trip across Illinois, en route to Chicago, had been a triumphal procession and she was delighted. Beginning at Danville early in the day, crowds gathered at every station along the route and gave Mrs. Pankhurst a welcome equal to that given a presidential candidate.

SULZER SAYS CASE WILL AID REGALL WISCONSIN IDEAS

His "Political Lynching" to Help Progress of Advanced Government Ideas

CLAIMS MURPHY RECALLED HIM PRAISES INDUSTRIAL MEASURES

Says the Court Was Packed Against Him at His Impeachment Trial

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—"I was recalled by a corrupt political boss, but with my story now known, the question which the people may answer for themselves, is whether I would have been removed from office had the recall rested with them."

This was the statement of former Governor Sulzer today in a special interview with the United Press, in which he declared that his removal at the order of Tammany hall would do more than anything else to bring to this state and other states, laws for the recall of public officials by a vote of the people, the initiative and referendum, and all other reform measures looking toward honest government.

Political Lynching.—He contended that his impeachment was a "political lynching." "A horse thief, in the frontier days, would have received a squarer deal," said the former governor as he again told of how twenty-seven senators who voted to acquit former Senator Stilwell, a bribe seeker, voted to convict him.

"That court of recall was packed against me," said Sulzer. "But would a court of the people have been ruled by a boss and bound to return a verdict removing me before a word of evidence was taken?"

"I could have gone before the people and told the story of how Murphy demanded that I appoint his henchmen that the state might be looted; how he sent messengers to serve notice upon me that unless I did his bidding all legislation would be blocked, and finally that I would be publicly disgraced. The people's court of recall could not have been packed against me. My story would have been admissible evidence before this highest court of all, which searches only for the truth."

Recalled by Murphy.—"I was elected by the people, but I was recalled by 'Chief' Murphy. But the people now know that the power to nominate public officials is the power to control these officials; they know now that we will not have honest government until the people do the nominating and control the officials. This means that the adoption of the direct primary, the initiative and referendum and the recall of public officials, including judges and judicial decisions will be hastened."

G. N. ENGINEER KILLED

WHITEFISH, Mont., Nov. 1.—It was believed today that Engineer Warren A. Jones of the Great Northern road's fast train, the Oregonian, which was wrecked near here yesterday would not survive. The Oregonian was running fifty-five miles an hour when it collided head on with a work train between Stonehill and Rondo. The engine of the Oregonian went into the Kootenai river. Fireman Guy Carr was killed.

HARVARD WINS RUN

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Harvard won the cross country race from Cornell here this afternoon over the new Belmont course, a distance of 5.5 miles. J. J. Hoffmire of Cornell, finished first in 31 minutes, 47.2 seconds, but Harvard scored the lowest number of points and won 51 to 55.

CAMP RANDALL, Nov. 1.—The score at the end of the first half of the crucial Wisconsin-Minnesota game today was 2 to 0 in favor of Wisconsin. Both teams were fighting bitterly and contesting every inch of the field. Wisconsin's score came in the first period when Bellows booted the ball across the crossbar, after recovering a kick on the Minnesota ten yard line, and making two ineffectual efforts to push the oval over for a touchdown.

First Quarter

Tollefson kicked off to Bellows, who carried the ball fifteen yards to his own 27 yard line. Van Gent fumbled and Minnesota got the ball. A forward pass, Tollefson to Mattern, was dropped, Wisconsin recovered. Cummings fumbled on the next play, Minnesota recovering. On a delayed pass, Mattern went through center for eight yards. Shaughnessy fumbled and Wisconsin recovered. Bellows punted on the first down and Tollefson returned the ball fifteen yards to the center of the field. A forward pass from Tollefson to Shaughnessy failed. Wisconsin realized five yards. A forward pass from Tollefson to McAdams advanced the Gophers five yards. Mattern was dumped in his tracks while Ofstie and Shaughnessy made two yards. Minnesota attempted a place kick from the forty yard line, but failed. Standing behind his own goal, Bellows punted out of bounds on Minnesota's forty-five yard line. Lange knocked down another forward pass, but Minnesota held the ball. Tollefson kicked forty yards to Bellows, who returned the ball five yards. Cummings made five yards over Sawyer and Van Gent ran twenty-seven yards over Bierman, carrying the ball to the center. On a false kick Bellows carried the ball eighteen yards around Fournier. Cummings over Solon for four yards, and Van Gent added five. Cummings made seven yards over Ostrom. Bellows attempted a drop kick from the twenty-five yard line, but failed and recovered on Minnesota's ten yard line. Van Gent made two yards over Rosenthal. Cummings was thrown for one yard. Bellows dropped back and sailed the oval between the posts. Score, Wisconsin 3, Minnesota 0.

Davey replaced Tandberg. Davey returned the ball fifteen yards. Wisconsin's thirty yard line. Bellows punted out of bounds on Minnesota's twenty yard line. McAlm made two. Solon swung over Ofstie for first down on Minnesota's thirty yard line. McAlmon fumbled. Lange recovered. Bellows lost two yards. Cummings made four. Score at first quarter, Wisconsin 3, Minnesota 0.

Second Quarter

Van Gent made three over Bierman. Wisconsin penalized five. Bellows drop kicked, but the ball hit the cross bar. Tollefson punted to Bellows on Wisconsin's forty yard line. Kessenich replaced Bellows. Kessenich kicked to Tollefson who returned seven yards. Shaughnessy went through center for seven yards. Minnesota rooters were on their feet pulling for a touchdown while Wisconsin held their breath in the second half, when the Gophers worked.

TOMAH, WIS.

Judge McCoy of Sparta is holding special court at Tomah this week. The principal case is that of the heirs of the late John Elliott, contesting a will. The principal legatees are friends of the deceased and the contention of the relatives is that he was of unsound mind at the time the will was signed. For the contestants, Lawyer Doherty of La Crosse has the case, while Lawyer Graham of Tomah is defending the action. Miss Elma Lille of Houston, Minn., who has been visiting relatives in this city, has returned to her home. Arrangements are being made to run a special train to Sparta for the Sparta-Tomah game Nov. 4. The train will leave the Tomah depot at 1 o'clock and will leave the Sparta depot at 6 o'clock. This will accommodate business and professional men who have to be back in this city in the evening. A very large crowd of Tomah people expect to attend the game. On Tuesday evening thousands of wild geese passed over Tomah. The migration lasted from six p. m. until after midnight. In some instances they flew so low as to strike against the sides and roofs of residences in the higher part of the city. It is believed that the light of the arc lamps attracted them to fly over the city.

The Indian school football team is arranging a hard schedule for the remainder of the season. On the enrollment of several members of former teams the team is greatly strengthened. On Nov. 15 they will battle with the La Crosse high school on the high school campus and on Thanksgiving day will play the Reedsburg high at Reedsburg. The manager is also in correspondence with several other high schools in this district. On Friday the first nine weeks of school will have been finished. On Monday or Tuesday report cards will be given out. The enrollment of the high school at present is 249, the largest in the history of the Tomah school. Dr. A. E. Winters is spending a few days visiting his brother, who resides in Chicago. Nick Neelon, a prosperous farmer residing two miles north of the city, is installing new cement floors in his buildings and making several other improvements. F. H. Lawrence of Chicago, is visiting a few days in this city. E. C. Hughes of Appleton is visiting friends and relatives in this city.

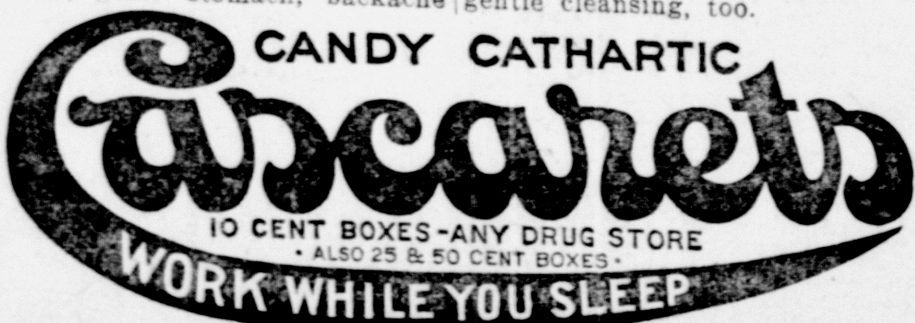

RESCUE ESKIMOS MAROONED 10 YEARS

WINNIPEG, Nov. 1.—Hudson Bay officials in Winnipeg have received reports from the Far North that a party of Eskimos, numbering ten persons, have been rescued from an island in the mouth of Hudson Bay, upon which they had been marooned for ten years. The Eskimos were caught off shore on drifting ice and were carried, after long weeks of hardships, to the island upon which they were found. This island has been avoided by passing vessels because of reefs and magnetic disturbances which affected the ships' compasses. It is more than 100 miles off the main land. The Eskimos had lived during the period of their enforced stay on fish and seal meat. Several children were born during the decade and some of the party had died. All who were rescued seemed to be in good health. No man who is a poor provider should expect his wife to be a good cook.

"CASCARETS" IF COSTIVE, BILIOUS, HEADACHY AND UPSET—DIME A BOX

No odds how much your head aches; how miserable you are from constipation, indigestion, biliousness, a "Cascaret" tonight straightens you out by morning. Clean your stomach, liver and bowels tonight; end the headache, biliousness, dizziness, nervousness, the sour, greasy stomach, backache and all other distress; relieve your sluggish liver and bowels of all the sour bile, gases and clogged up waste which is producing the misery. A 10 cent box of Cascarets keeps your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and you feel bully for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A FAMILY AFFAIR

By FERDINAND CARSEIN
(Copyright, 113, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

"Well, I'm glad to see you again, old fellow! It's Jim Rodgers, Pearson. You've heard us all talk of him."

Natalie Thurston, hearing the voice behind her, swallowed twice, then moistened her lips before she could answer the question as to future mother-in-law had just put to her. She felt the cold bit turns and her heart began to thump so violently that the soft dappery across her breasts quivered. Jim Rodgers home again one week before she was to marry Bob Stafford!

She slipped her arm through Mrs. Stafford's and moved away. She wanted time to get herself well in hand before she should encounter the man who had taken such care to win her love only to toss it aside and leave her with noalm to save her wounded heart a vanity. She had been eighteen—was thirty. In the five years since he had gone away she thought that she had schooled herself to forget, but at the mention of his name and with the knowledge that he was near, memories rushed like a angry sea into what she had believed was the safe harbor of her affections in her betrothal to young Stafford.

If any of the girls should prove unkind enough to tell Stafford of her long, sleepless night and the anxious waiting for news from Jim Rodgers, what would he do? She shuddered to think what would become of her if another man jilted her.

"Bob loves you so very dear," she heard Mrs. Stafford's voice as indistinctly as if she were far away instead of there, close beside her. "We are all so pleased with you. Bob never really cared for any girl except you, unless perhaps it was Katie Rodgers."

"You have been very sweet to me and Bob has been a ideal lover," Natalie controlled herself with an effort. So Bob had loved Jim's sister! She had heard something of it a year before.

In a secluded place she stopped and opened a tiny jeweled vanity case, she powdered her nose before a diminutive mirror. At any rate, she would be looking her best when she met the lover of her youth. She felt very old and sophisticated after the experience.

Mrs. Stafford laughed indulgently. "Look you prettier," she said. "That lace you are wearing is wonderful. You are superb in it."

Natalie glowed with the thought that at least he would not have any visible evidence of her grief. The ravages of love had left no outward effect.

They came suddenly upon a crowd around a punch bowl in the fragrant conservatory. Natalie was seized and turned about for inspection. The women were so busy getting hints concerning the wedding and the men were so intent on looking at the lovely bride-to-be, that none of them noticed a group enter by another door and stop at the punch bowl. Cups were passed and Dick Wilson lifted his and proposed a toast to Natalie.

"To Natalie Thurston, the girl we have all loved, but who has been won by lucky Bob Stafford. To the future Mrs. Bob!"

There was the sharp metallic ring of splintered glass as the crystal cup in Jim Rodgers' hand crashed on the marble floor. Everybody turned, but he looked only at Natalie. If the girl had wanted him for her injured feelings, she had it when people saw the look Jim Rodgers gave her then. The sudden news of her marriage had torn the mask from his face. Pride and self-control deserted him.

With the loss of his own self-possession, singularly enough Natalie felt herself grow cool and collected and able to hold her own in a situation which he had made difficult.

"You thought that I was an apparition, didn't you, Jim?" She went toward him smiling, her hand out in frank welcome. "Your cousin wrote mother a note of condolence a month ago. He said that you two had just heard somewhere in Egypt on your travels that I had died recently. I dare say mother's explanatory letter failed to reach you before you sailed."

The strain was over and everybody laughed. Nobody heard Jim's answer, if he made any, for he began to joke about being sickened that he was afraid to die and meet the happy spirits beyond.

"You know I was quite ill all last spring, and if news travels any distance, it always becomes exaggerated, doesn't it? No wonder I slipped had me dead by the time it reached Egypt." Natalie turned to find that Mrs. Stafford was gone, and pretending that she must go to her and hurried away. There was such a wild urging joy in her heart that she wanted to laugh. Then she grew frightened at the emotion that had stirred her with the knowledge that Jim Rodgers still cared. Was she glad for the sake of her pride only? She dropped down in a window seat partially screened by curtains and palms.

"I love you and I can never love anybody but you," she heard a woman's voice say passionately. Then the man's voice, answering, brought Natalie to her feet.

"I love you, too, Kate, better than anything in this world, but I've been such a fool. It's too late to do anything now."

"Why did you ask Natalie to marry

A generation ago, engagements, weddings, anniversaries and birthdays were largely neighborhood affairs. But communities have grown, suburbs have sprung up, and homes in the country separate many friends part of the year.

The handicap of distance often makes it impossible to extend congratulations in person. In this difficulty the Long Distance Telephone is indispensable. It is easier, quicker and more personal than a letter of congratulation, which is usually perfunctory and difficult to write.

ry you, Bob? Why did you do it?"

"I was hurt at you, mad at the world in general, and she comforted me and later fascinated me with her beauty. I have never loved anybody but you."

Natalie took a deep breath, much as a singer does who is about to begin a difficult passage. She parted the curtains and came upon the startled pair. It took only a second to pull the gleaming circle from her finger and drop it on a little table near the man.

"I am glad that I know now, before it is too late, Bob," she said quietly and without waiting to hear the stammered apologies of the two, she walked on up the stairs to where the sound of orchestra and pattering feet told of dancing. She felt calm and happy. Life no longer hedged her about. She was free once more.

She went to her hostess. "You must think me abominably rude. I have been detained," she began, but a dozen men gathered around, besieging her.

"Sorry to disappoint you, boys, but this is mine," she said. "It has been so long, Natalie, I love you."

She saw Jim Rodgers held out and his voice, soft and pleading, plucked at her heart strings, waking old love songs, half forgotten.

"You love me," he went on. "Why else did you try to save my pride when I was overcome by the announcement of your wedding?"

"Wasn't I clever to think of such a plausible story, Jim?" she asked whimsically. "On such short notice, too!"

"I don't know how to tell you why I went away. You must not censure your father. He thought that he was acting wisely for you."

"My father? What did he have to do with your going?"

"I didn't have any fortune when I asked you to marry me. You knew that. Your father thought you could do better, so he asked me to clear out without a word and give you a chance. You were young, he said, you would get over your love for me."

"O Jim—Jim, surely father knew—I couldn't forget—"

"Then you do love me still? You love me, Natalie? I counted on your remembering. I went West—I haven't been near Europe as people supposed—and I cleaned up a nice fortune."

"Oh, I don't want your money. I only want you," she sobbed.

"We must go, find Bob and explain things to him."

Natalie held up a ringless finger. "I am not engaged to Bob any more. He loves your sister Kate. I heard him tell her so tonight."

"What complications!" he laughed, his arms close about her.

IF YOU ARE A DRINKING MAN

You had better stop at once or you'll lose your job. Every line of business is closing its doors to "Drinking" men. It may be your turn next. By the aid of ORRINE thousands of men have been restored to lives of sobriety and industry.

We are so sure that ORRINE will benefit you that we say to you that if after a trial you fail to get any benefit from its use, your money will be refunded.

When you stop "Drinking," think of the money you'll save; besides, sober men are worth more to their employers and get higher wages.

Costs only $1.00 a box. We have an interesting booklet about ORRINE that we are giving away free on request. Call at our store and talk it over. O. T. Erhart, 518 Main St.

He Tried to Chase the Shadow Away.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Charlie Chased The Shadow Home Again.

WHAT makes the shadows on the wall had been talked over by Jack and Evelyn and daddy.

"Everybody has his own shadow, you know, that sticks to him always. It's only when you get way off into elf land that the shadow runs away and leaves you," daddy said.

"And I believe I'll tell you a story about a little boy that lost his shadow. Often he got tired of it. Now it would be bobbing along in front of him, then it would dodge behind him and stay there no matter how hard he tried to get away. Sometimes it would walk quietly along by his side."

"Go 'way, old shadow," he cried one day. "Charlie's tired of you."

"So after supper Charlie curled up on the big chair by the fire. And there was his shadow bobbing on the wall at his side."

"Oh, aren't you ever going to go 'way?" Charlie wailed. And then he thought the shadow nodded to him.

"Presently Charlie began to feel sleepy, and when he looked again the shadow had really gone."

"Oh, my!" chuckled Charlie. "Now I can have fun."

"So he hopped up out of the chair. He didn't stop to wonder why he felt so light, but skipped over two or three chairs and dodged into the hall, just as Bridget, who had been out spending the evening, came in.

"The saints preserve us!" shrieked Bridget as he darted by her.

"The moon was shining, but Charlie was pleased to see that, as he floated along, there was no shadow with him."

"Got away from him that time," he chuckled. And just then he got a glimpse of the shadow flitting away down the road ahead of him.

"Just then a little man in gray came out of the bushes and, nodding to Charlie, said: 'There he goes! He'll get away from you if you don't watch.'"

"Why, I got away from him!" Charlie replied.

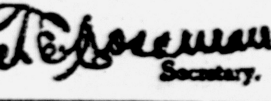

"No, you didn't," contradicted the little man in gray. "He gave you the slip, and if you aren't careful you'll lose him for good and all."

"Who are you and what do you know about it?" Charlie asked.

"I'm the king of the shadows," he replied. "And if a shadow gets away from any one he has to be one of my shadows himself."

"Charlie did run then. He chased his shadow for miles, and the faster he went the faster the shadow went."

"At last he chased it right into the door of his own house and down the hall into the library, and then he woke up in the chair by the fire. "And since then Charlie is quite content to have his shadow."

we be able to do city business on the basis of quantum meruit. This road and bridge now being recognized as essential, the plan is not to pay for it like a thrifty city, but to cut out some other essential. This is not genuine economy.

EPISCOPALIANS HAVE UP TO DATE PRAYER

Were you looking over a list of prayers to find one fitted for present day use, what would you think of one that incorporated these supplications:

"From the sins that divide us, from all class bitterness and race hatred, from forgetfulness of Thee and indifference to our fellow men, good Lord, deliver us.

"From the corruption of the franchise and civil government, from greed and the arbitrariness of power, good Lord, deliver us.

"From the fear of unemployment and the evils of overwork, from the curse of child labor and the ill paid toil of women, good Lord, deliver us.

"That the labor movement may be confirmed in disinterested honor and the employers of labor may fashion their dealings according to the laws of equity, we beseech Thee to hear us, good Lord."

This is not the prayer of a professional politician, at the stump. It was recently used in a New York Episcopal church. And, after all, is there anything in Holy Writ to which this practical prayer of the times is abhorrent?

CO-OPERATIVE PLANT PLAN LOOKS GOOD

If the affirmative logic that backs it had left anything wanting to prove the soundness of the plan of the American Society of Equity to establish its own co-operative packing plants, the sudden interest which the announcement created in the Chicago stock yards supplied the deficiency.

The farmers supply the cattle for beef. If they build plants to do their own packing, and exert upon the butchers the influence which they, each in his own locality, are in a position to bring to bear upon the retailers, their market is assured.

In this section confidence is added to the plan by the identification with it of the name of Langdon & Boyd. These men have won their title to business ability by being one of the few independent plants to defy the beef trust's power to extinguish them.

We look to see this plan, if consummated, lead to the building up here of a large and profitable industry that shall do its part in the re-organization by which the producer and consumer are to profit by more direct contact.

PERHAPS WE NEEDED GOAD OF COMPETITION

In decided contrast with the gloomy talk of textile men prior to the passage of the then pending tariff bill is the following language of a textile expert quoted by the Saturday Evening Post:

"Tariff revision will compel manufacturing and distributing economies drastic and far-reaching in their nature. . . . I shall show how long-standing extravagances may be replaced by efficiency and economy. . . . That we can become important factors in world trade is conclusively proven by Canadian statistics. Our trade with Canada has practically doubled in three years. Our sales of cotton cloth to Canada in three years have risen from three-quarters of a million to two and a half million dollars in spite of a twenty-five per cent preferential to England. Doing so much across our northern border with unusually strong odds against us—not only the British preferential tariff, but a 'dumping duty' which prevents us from using Canada as a bargain counter—what might we not do in other countries by proper organization and effort?"

America's failure to assume its proper place in the South American trade is a topic of world-wide discussion. Perhaps, under the goad of necessary competition at home, we may learn to cope with European manufacturers abroad.

If the government takes over the telegraphs, it is hoped they don't operate it in conjunction with the post offices. That would spoil the chances for every town to get another government building.

Although the American Bankers were heartily entertained at Boston, they were so impolite as to ask to see the collateral whenever any one asked to borrow any money.

The theater managers of course aren't expecting to make any money out of these vice plays, and merely put them on to elevate the human race.

Owing to the fact that October 13 was observed as Columbus day, the farmers thought the boys should stay out of school and help get in the crops.

Ex-President Taft declined to go in an aeroplane. It is fortunate for him that he isn't running for office.

WE CAN ALWAYS AFFORD A GOOD INVESTMENT

It was not a testimonial to the progressiveness of La Crosse that twenty business men and city officials meeting for that purpose debated for two hours the question of building a substantial road and bridge to connect the biggest factory in La Crosse with the city's established thoroughfares, and finally gave assurance that it would be done because it was discovered that in a moment of indulgence the improvement had been promised by a council resolution. Were that factory established in another city, and were it to condition its moving to La Crosse upon the building of that road and bridge, how by acclamation the thing would have carried! Not until we have tax levies and budgets fixed by a non-partisan commission shall

"Man wants but little here below," That was an ancient song; We do hear it now, you know, The sentiment is wrong. Man wants just now all he can get. In way of sordid tin; Seems like a very sin. The way that some go after it Man wants a fancy touring car, He wants a private yacht; He wants to get a lot of junk. His neighbors haven't got. He wants a lot of suits of clothes And rare gems for his wife; He wants a chateau by the sea, To make complete his life. He wants a lot of stocks and bonds, And Standard Oil preferred; He also wants a lot of things Of which he never heard. He doesn't really want them, In true sense of the term; But thinks he does and that's the same. And he'll work and squirm To garner everything in sight And keep it stored away. He saves a lot of useless junk To meet the rainy day; And when he dies and passes on He leaves it all behind. Because he cannot take along A thing of any kind. 'Twould suit a lot of men first rate If they were but endowed With brains sufficient to invent A pocket for the shroud.

Willing to be a Bride

A negro had made several ineffectual efforts to propose to the object of his affections, but on each occasion his courage failed him at the last moment. After thinking the matter over he finally decided to telephone, which he did. "Is that you, Samantha?" he inquired upon being given the proper number. "Yes, it's me," returned the lady. "Will you marry me, Samantha, and marry me quick?" "Yes, I will," was the reply; "who's speaking?"

An Apt Text

During one of the hottest days of the early summer a certain girl in one of the New Jersey cities was overcome by the heat, and for several days was afflicted with headache and weakness in consequence, says Leslie's Weekly.

Three or four weeks later she was about to undertake a journey. The night previous to the day on which she must start was sultry. "If the morning opens hot," she decided, "I must give up my trip. The doctor said that I must run no risk of getting overheated again."

The morning did open very hot, but when she turned to the page for that date on her Scripture roll, she saw: "The sun shall not smite thee by day nor the moon by night."

And though she went as she had planned the promise held good.

No Great Eater

The Rev. Doctor Elderberry had been upon a voyage to the South Seas and brought back a young cannibal. The young cannibal was called Beebo. Beebo was turned over to Mrs. Elderberry to be civilized. For full four weeks the good lady instructed her charge in the theoretical principles of Christian doctrine and conduct, until she thought he was ripe to put his training into practice.

"And now, Beebo," said she one day, "you shall see that what I have taught you is more than mere words. You are to accompany me to the public kitchen where I serve fifty poor schoolboys. You shall help me."

But the little cannibal shook his head sadly. "O missy," he said, "I'm not hungry. The most I could eat would be one very little school boy."—New York Evening Post.

A Cautious Young Woman

Elizabeth has been strictly trained in the properties of receiving gifts of money. Uncle John arrived, a privileged character, and after the custom of uncles, produced a quarter dollar. Likewise he offered to go to the candy-man's shop across the way on a squandering expedition.

There Elizabeth chose a box of candy at ten cents. The shopkeeper took the quarter, and produced in exchange the box and fifteen cents Elizabeth was polite but firm as she refused the change.

"That you," she said, "but we are not allowed to take money from everybody."—New York Evening Post.

"Good evening, Monsieur. I am sorry I kept you waiting. Hannibal hurt his foot and I must find plaster and bandage for him. But you will have enough of my talking even now. Father says I talk a great deal. Do I, Monsieur?"

Francois stood regarding her, with frank admiration in every muscle of his face. He smiled, the same gentle amused smile with which he had addressed the portrait. "You never talk too much for me, Mademoiselle. It is a pleasure to me always to hear your voice," he answered in the deep tone of a Frenchman, the tone that has ever a half note of tragedy, as of some race-memory which centuries do not wipe out. "Only," he went on speaking in French, "one must not talk English. That is breaking the law, you remember, Mademoiselle."

She answered very prettily in his own tongue, in words that halted a little. "Very well, Monsieur. I will do my best." He still gazed at her smiling, without speaking. One could understand that, to a girl of more self-contained people, this open homage of manner, this affectionate gentleness, might seem to mean more than a brotherly loyalty. The girl's pulse was beating fast as she made an effort for conversation. "What were you thinking of as you looked at the fire when I came in, Monsieur? It had an air of being something pleasant. Did I not say all that beautifully?" she finished in English.

He corrected a lame verb with serious accuracy and she repeated the word, and laughed happily.

"But you haven't said yet what you were thinking about."

The large brown eyes turned on hers. "It was of my old home in France, Mademoiselle, when I was very little," he said simply. "A large fire of logs makes me think of that."

"Tell me about it," she begged with quick interest. "Will you? Was there always a fire at your house?"

"But no, Mademoiselle—not, of course, in the summer. It was of the winter time I thought, when the neighbors came, in the evening, and we sat about the hearth, sometimes twenty people, each at his different duty, and my brothers and sisters were there, and the dear grandmother was there and—" he stopped.

"Does Mademoiselle really wish to hear how it was in that old farmhouse of ours, in the shadows of the Jura Mountains?"

"Indeed, Mademoiselle wishes it," she assured him. "It will be a trip to Europe. I am sure I shall speak better French for going to France for ten minutes, and being among the French people, your friends. Wait now, till I am comfortable."

She turned a deep chair so that it faced him, and dropped into it. "Put a footstool for me," she ordered, as southern women order the men they care for—and the men they do not. And she settled back with her little feet on it and smiled at him. For a moment the man's brilliant gaze rested on her and the girl saw it, and thrilled to it. "Now, Monsieur, racontez-moi une histoire," she spoke softly.

Francois Beaupre's look turned from her to the fire, and the air of gazing at something far away came again. "It is a picture I see as I think of that time of my childhood," he began, as if speaking to himself. "A picture many times painted in homelike colors on my brain. Many a night in the winter I have sat, a little boy, by the side of my grandmother, at that great hearth, and have looked and have seen all the faces, have heard all the voices and the fire crackling, and the spinning-wheel whirling, even as I see them and hear them tonight. I was always close by the

ERUPTION ON ANKLE GREAT SUFFERING

Many Nights Did Not Sleep, Burned All the Time, Wore Bandage Night and Day, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Now Well.

Kingsville, Mo.—"My trouble began eighteen years ago. Nearly half of the time there were running sores around my ankle; sometimes it would be two years at a time before they were healed. There were many nights I did not sleep because of the great suffering. The sores were deep running ones and so sore that I could not bear for anything to touch them. They would burn all the time and sting like a lot of bees were confined around my ankle. I could not bear to scratch it. It was always so sensitive to the touch. I could not let my clothes touch it. The skin was very red. I made what I called a cap out of white felt, blotting paper and soft white cloth to hold it in shape. This I wore night and day.

"I tried many remedies for most of the eighteen years with no effect. Last summer when my ankle had been sore for over a year and much worse than ever before I sent for some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. It would itch and burn, besides a great hurting that I think tongue could never explain. The very first time I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment I gained relief; they relieved the pain right then. It was three months from the time I commenced using Cuticura Soap and Ointment until the sores were entirely healed. I have not been troubled since." (Signed) Mrs. Charles E. Brooke, Oct. 22, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 10c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

The world-wide standard Baking Powder Absolutely Pure
Royal Baking Powder is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder and its use is more economical than other leavening agents, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.
Cheap baking powders, containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or advertised as pure and wholesome. Such mixtures are not desirable for food ingredients. Most persons have learned to their sorrow that a low price does not always mean economy. This is especially so in a food article. No baking powder can properly be substituted for Royal.
Read the ingredient clause upon the label. If it does not show "Cream of Tartar," don't buy the powder.

grand-mere, for I was the dearest of the children to her. Sometimes long after my bedtime I sat there, but very quietly, for fear that my mother might remember and send me to bed; yet she liked to please the grand-mere, so I stayed often longer than the others. It was a great room, and across one corner was the hearth which was raised like a throne. Mademoiselle, from the floor, twelve feet wide. One burned logs six feet long within it, and from up the chimney swung the cremalliere—the chains from which were hung the kettles. It was the house of a peasant. Mademoiselle knows, yet it was the best house in the village. Often, of a November night, the neighbors would come in, perhaps a dozen, perhaps more, and the young men had their work— they arranged the flax for spinning, it might be—and the young girls prepared apples to dry, and the mothers' knitting needles flashed back and forth on the stockings for our winter wear, and the grand-mere would be spinning linen threads for our clothing—whirr, whirr—I can hear the low sound of her wheel. And always I, Francois, would be on the stool at her side, watching and listening. For my father was a great raconteur, and he told stories of the war and of the legends of that country. It was an ancient country you must know, Mademoiselle, and the name of our village itself was from the Romans. Vieques was the name, and that as you know, Mademoiselle, comes from the Latin word vieus, a village. So that there were old castles in ruin in those parts and tales of buried treasure, and ghosts in armour guarding it, and great dogs that breathed fire, and other things pleasantly horrible to the ear of a little boy. On the cold nights, as the fire roared up the chimney and the grand-mother's wheel whirled softly, my father and the other men told these tales, and I listened, quiet as a mouse in my corner, and from time to time I saw a young man lean over and whisper in the ear of one of the young girls, and I wondered why her face became red as the firelight.

"And from time to time one of the men, as he talked, rose up and strode across the room to the great oak table where lay always on a wooden plate a long loaf of black bread, with a knife, and always a glass and a bottle of eau-de-vie—brandy. And I remember how manly it looked to me, watching, when I saw him take the loaf under his arm and hold it, and slice off boldly a great piece of the fresh yeast bread, and pour out a glass of brandy and toss it off as he ate the bread. The stories seemed to grow better after the teller had done that.

"And always I waited, even through the tale of the ghost and the fire-breathing hound, till the talk should swing round, as it did ever toward the end, to the stories of Napoleon that were fresh in men's minds in those days. It was as if I sat on needles before my bedtime came, yet I did not dare to be restless and move about for fear that my mother might send me suddenly to bed. But I always gave a sign of content and always the grand-mere pushed my head softly to hear it, when my father cleared his throat and began—

"There is a small thing that happened when the Emperor was marching—and then he was launched on his tale."

Something Was Wrong

Mrs. Smith had asked Mr. Smith more than fifty times (so he said) when he was going to varnish her kitchen oil cloth. Finally, in desperation, one Saturday afternoon, he donned his overalls and went at it.

Monday morning it had not dried a bit.

"Something is wrong with the varnish, Henry. Where did you put the can?"

"I set it back on the cellar shelf," he answered absently from the depths of a newspaper.

She came back in the room presently with the can and stood in front of him ominously quiet, he thought, so he looked up. She held the can toward him.

"Can't you read, Henry Smith? You varnished the kitchen oil cloth with pure Vermont maple syrup."—National Monthly.

FROM THE SISTERS OF ST. MARY

Grateful Letter Tells of Good Results Obtained by Using Father John's Medicine For Colds and Coughs

We have permission to quote from the following letter recently received from the Sisters of St. Mary at Parnham, N. Y.: The sisters who have been taking Father John's Medicine are perfectly cured of their cough, after having tried several other kinds of cough medicine without the least beneficial effects. We are sincerely grateful and would like to recommend Father John's Medicine to all as the very best cure for the most stubborn coughs and colds. Gratefully yours, (Signed), Sister of St. Mary, Parnham, N. Y.

It is important to remember that Father John's Medicine is so valuable in the treatment of colds because it is composed of nourishing food elements which give new strength and rebuild wasted tissue. As a tonic Father John's Medicine has had over 50 years' success. It is a doctor's prescription, not a patent medicine, and is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form. Thousands of mothers give it to their children to build them up at this time of the year.

EASTERN ROADS IMPRESS WING

Local Banker Declares that Much of Wisconsin's Money Spent on Roads Is Wasted

That much of the state and county expenditures yearly for the building and improvements of roads in Wisconsin is a waste, is the opinion of E. M. Wing, vice president of the Batavian National bank.

Mr. Wing precluded his recent eastern trip with an automobile tour covering nearly a thousand miles through the New England and central Atlantic coast states.

During the trip he noted with great interest the manner in which he roads in the states in which he covered were built, maintained and guarded.

"What struck me as being the greatest road system I had ever seen," he said, "was the manner of state roads in Massachusetts and New York states.

"The governments of these states build hard roads, with lasting foundations, and they see that each year and often they are resurfaced.

"When in the central part of New York state, we were traveling slowly over the finest piece of road it has ever been my pleasure to ride on, taking in the beauty of the rolling country and thinking of the roads back in Wisconsin, we came to a large sign at the side of the highway which read, 'Be progressive, keep out of the ruts.'

"The idea of the sign was to teach a discontinuance of the practice of farm wagons and automobiles and other vehicles of always driving over the same ruts, thus wearing the road in a single line, whereas if the practice of driving over the road and not making ruts were followed the wear on the road in a year would not be perceptible.

"We all believe that Wisconsin is the most progressive state in the union, with laws far in advance of the majority of states, and yet a great many of our roads are built so that within a few years' time they decay."

In speaking of the roads through the New England states, Mr. Wing said he was impressed with a system they have of having road patrolmen houses at frequent intervals. A man is placed in each of these houses for the purpose of keeping the roads in repair all the time.

Through a great many of the eastern states, the roads are built, first with a layer of concrete for a foundation, and are then packed with rock, then another layer of concrete, topped with a preparation of tar and screened rock, and then oiled. The roads are not oiled spasmodically but are covered every few months with a thin coat of oil.

SPOTLIGHTS

"THE TIK-TOK MAN OF OZ"

The Oliver Morosco production of the L. Frank Baum-Louis F. Gottschalk fairyland extravaganza, "The Tik-Tok Man of Oz," which is described by the author as a companion play to "The Wizard of Oz," will be the attraction at the La Crosse theater on Wednesday, November 5, matinee and night.

The story is told in two acts and a prologue, and a scenic treat is promised. "The Tik-Tok Man of Oz" is a stage version of some of Mr. Baum's fairy tales of the mythical land of Oz, and has to do with the search by Betsy Bobbin, Hank, her pet mule, Tik-Tok, the clockwork man, Princess Ozma of Roseland, Queen Ann and the Army of the Oogaboo, Polychrome, the daughter of the Rainbow, and others of his delightful and fantastic characters, for the brother of the Shaggy Man, who is imprisoned in the domain of King Ruggedo, the Metal Monarch. The producer promises that it will unquestionably be the biggest extravaganza offering the native stage has known in years. The author, L. Frank Baum, has written a book that is quaint with humor and replete with comedy situations, and Louis F. Gottschalk has enhanced the value of the lyrics of the fairy play by musical compositions that are catchy and brilliant and profuse with topical themes. From the wondrously realistic shipwreck and storm at sea shown in the prologue, where Betsy and Hank are cast upon the shore of the Rose Kingdom, to the scene showing King Ruggedo in the cavern of the Metal Monarch, there is a kaleidoscope sequence of stage pictures that baffle description.

"ISHMAEL"

A dramatization of Mrs. E. M. Southworth's famous novel, "Ishmael," will be presented by the Van Dyke & Eaton Stock company at the La Crosse theater on Sunday afternoon and continue on Monday and Tuesday only. There will be no performance on Wednesday by the stock company on account of the one night stand company, "Tik-Tok Man of Oz," and the special "bargain sale" will be for Tuesday night, at which time any seat in the theater can be had for ten cents providing tickets are purchased before 6 p. m.

The last performance of "The Prince of Liars" will be given tonight.

Free presents will be given to everybody on Monday night.

DIVORCE FOOTBALL HERO

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Maurice B. Flynn, chorus girl wife of the famous Yale football player, has been granted an interlocutory decree of divorce by Justice Devendorf. "Lefty" Flynn's romance was brief. He eloped with a show girl last January, married her in the face of parental opposition, and then was invited to leave college.

Years of Suffering

Catarrh and Blood Disease—Doctors Failed to Cure.

Miss Mabel P. Dawkins, 1214 Lafayette St., Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "For three years I was troubled with catarrh and blood disease. I tried several doctors and a dozen different remedies, but none of them did me any good. A friend told me of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took two bottles of this medicine and was as well and strong as ever. I feel like a different person and recommend Hood's to any one suffering from catarrh."

HANS COMPANY CUTS MELON

The Hans Motor Equipment company today paid $1,000 in dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock of the company to stockholders. The stock was issued some months ago for the building of the new factory at the head of Caledonia street.

CATARRH

We are all familiar with our old friend, a cold in the head that comes from anywhere and develops into a chest trouble with an attendant cough, unless properly taken care of promptly.

A few of us in this climate are fortunate enough to escape the aggravating hacking, spitting, dropping in the throat, difficult breathing, foul taste in the mouth, stuffy feeling in the head or full feeling in the throat, according to the severity of the case; but how many of us realize that the "chronic cold" is catarrh and even if we do name the disease, how often do any of us go about a cure for it in the right way?

It is now conceded that catarrh finds its origin in the blood and the cause, therefore, must be removed before the local symptoms will disappear. The persons who are constantly having colds and occasionally let them run into more serious diseases, the acute forms of which are curable in a short time but leave a weakness that makes one susceptible to other things later on, should make an effort to get the kind of treatment that will STRIKE at the ROOT of the trouble—that is, take medical treatment that will drive out the taint that causes the mucous membranes to be attacked and then they will make some headway toward cure.

Dr. Turbin is in town once a month and from the remarkable cures he has been able to bring about, there is no question but what he is qualified to treat and cure catarrh. Prevent the development of lung trouble, catarrh of the stomach, bronchitis and numerous other maladies by attending to that case of catarrh at once.

DR. TURBIN

of Berlin, Germany, the expert Specialist, who has visited La Crosse for the past twenty years, will be again in La Crosse at the Jefferson Hotel, Monday, November 10th.

INDIANAPOLIS TIED UP BY CAR STRIKE

Unusual Scenes but No Violence Mark First Twelve Hours of Walk-out

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 1.—Unusual scenes, but no serious violence, marked the first twelve hours of a strike of street car men here today. A howling and hooting mob of men and boys at Illinois and Washington streets, the city's busiest corner, greeted the few cars that reached that point during the forenoon. Three mounted policemen were helpless to disperse the mob and before ten o'clock it numbered a thousand.

Forty arrests have been made. Six cars have had their windows smashed by stones. One striker and two policemen have been slightly hurt. Dozens of cars have been stalled, mostly due to the inexperience of strike breakers and the interference of strikers and sympathizers. One car left a curve at high speed and was wrecked. The ranks of the strikers are being increased.

The strike did not affect the interurban traffic seriously, the interurban trainmen apparently being not any more thoroughly organized than in their recent unsuccessful walkout.

WORK PROGRESSES ON ROUNDHOUSE

Work on the building of the addition to the Milwaukee roundhouse on the north side is taking rapid strides and this morning was about one-quarter completed.

Engineers are now devoting a great deal of time to the rebuilding of cinder pits.

The engineers in charge have planned a system to handle the rolling stock of the company efficiently and with less loss of time. The addition to the round house will add about a quarter more space to the building.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION TO COUNTY COURT.

State of Wisconsin, County Court La Crosse County, ss.—In Probate.

Notice is hereby given that at a special term of the County Court, to be held in and for said County, at the Court House, in the City of La Crosse, in said County, on the third Tuesday, being the 18th day of November, A. D. 1913, at ten o'clock A. M., the following matter will be heard and considered:

The application of Victoria Ritter for the appointment of an administrator of the estate of Henry Ritter, late of the City of La Crosse, in said County of La Crosse, deceased.

By order of the Court,
JOHN BRINDLEY,
County Judge.

OTTO M. SCHLABACH,
Attorney for Petitioner.

Catching Cold on the Street Car

Many people persist in riding on the street cars, insufficiently protected by clothing.

They start out perhaps in the heat of the day and do not feel the need of wraps.

The rapid moving of the car cools the body unduly. When they board the car perhaps they are slightly perspiring. When the body is in this condition it is easily chilled. This is especially true when a person is sitting.

Beginning a street car ride in the middle of the day and ending it in the evening almost invariably requires extra wraps, but people do not observe these precautions, hence they catch cold.

Colds are very frequent in the autumn on this account, and as the autumn advances they do not decrease. During the autumn months no one should think of riding on the car without being provided with a wrap.

A cold caught in the autumn is liable to last through the entire winter. Great caution should be observed at this season against exposure to cold. During the pleasant days of autumn, the liability of catching cold is great.

No wonder so many people acquire muscular rheumatism and catarrhal diseases during this season.

However, in spite of the greatest precautions, colds will be caught.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now procure Peruna Tablets

At the appearance of the first symptom, Peruna should be taken according to directions on the bottle, and continued until every symptom disappears.

Do not put it off. Do not waste time by talking it over. Begin at once to take Peruna, and continue taking it until you are positive that the cold has entirely disappeared. This may save you a long and perhaps serious illness later on.

Cold Causes Deafness

Mr. Turner Sampson, R. F. D. 5, Manchester, N. H., writes: "I have been troubled with catarrh in my head by spells for a number of years. Last July I took a hard cold and was deaf in one ear. I got discouraged and thought it would never be any better."

"I was advised to try Peruna. I took one bottle and was cured. I would advise any one who is afflicted to give Peruna a trial, believing that they will experience the relief that I have."

She Took Cold Easily

Mrs. C. E. Long writes from Box 495, Lindsay, Cal., as follows: "My little girl had a cough that had been troubling her for four months. She took cold easily, and would wheeze and have spells of coughing that would sometimes last for a half hour."

"Before she began taking your Peruna she suffered everything in the way of cough, colds and croup, but now she is well and strong as she has ever been in her life."

SPARTA COAL MEN ARE RE-ARRESTED

SPARTA, Wis., Nov. 1.—The attorney for the city was not satisfied with the statements of the warrants in the arrest of the coal dealers and so they were arrested over and over again. The three cases will be tried Nov. 6 in justice court and will probably be put over to the November term of circuit court.

BIRTHDAY SUPPER

A few of the elect gathered around the hospitable board of Mrs. David Austin to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Mollie Austin. Covers were laid for eight. Guest cards with appropriate sentiments were prepared for all.
A large bunch of carnations centered
the table, and a large birthday cake
with one candle was brought in for the last course.

MEN'S ANNUAL SUPPER

The annual gentlemen's coffee at the First Congregational church will be held Monday evening, November
3, in the church parlors. Rev. Henry Faville, the former pastor, is expected to be present, and will be the guest of honor and toastmaster. Dr.
Herbert L. Willett of the University of Chicago will be the principal speaker of the evening. Other out-of town speakers of prominence will be present.

FAREWELL PARTY

Miss Laura Post was hostess at a Hallowe'en farewell surprise party
in honor of Miss Holly Pomeroy,
who will soon leave for Dunn Center, N. D. Miss Pomeroy was presented with a handsome diamond ring.
Luncheon was served at 11:30. Those present were the Misses Laura Post, Frieda Moores, Alma Schultz, Eleanor, Minnie, Irene and Tessie Richards, Holly Pomeroy, Mesdames Portis, Richards, Post and Koch.

HALLOWEEN PARTIES

Mrs. E. E. Dowe entertained at a progressive Hallowe'en dinner last evening for her daughter Frances.
There were eight guests present, all members of a little club. The decorations were elaborate and unique.
In the center of the table stood a witch's house surrounded by hobgoblins, Jack o' Lanterns and other Hallowe'en favors. Chains of tissue paper cut in fanciful shapes were festooned over the table and from room to room. Games and guessing contests were the amusement of the evening. The guests were all in fancy costumes. Those present were Margery Palmer, Lillian Anderson,
Dorothy Sutor, Virginia Herman,
Helen Williams and Agnes Strand.
A witch's cake was one of the features of the dinner. The second course was served at the home of Margery Palmer, Lillian Anderson
being one of the hostesses. The third course was served by Dorothy Sutor, Virginia Herman and Agnes Strand.

Miss Betty Hixon entertained a number of her friends at a Hallowe-
e'en dinner last evening at her home. The house was filled with all sorts of Hallowe'en emblems, some of which were truly blood curdling.
Festoons of tissue paper in various colors were stretched through the rooms with all sorts of grotesque figures attached. In the center of the table was hung a huge pumpkin simulating a grab bag and filled with all sorts of favors, pretty and otherwise.

The lights were turned low and covered with colored shades, giving a strange weird effect. Games and various stunts were the order of the evening. The guests were Elizabeth Norbeck, Sandy Paul, Caroline
Schweizer, Don Gordon, Anna Esch,
Newell Holley, Helen Goetzman,
Joseph Hixon, Jessie Evans, Frances Goetzman, Dora Hirschheimer, Frederick Paul and Waneeta Esch of Sparta.

Mrs. George Christian Ebersole entertained at a Hallowe'en party in honor of her daughter Helen last night at her home in the Doerflinger apartments. Those present were Helen Goddard, Kathleen Bovee, Mary
and Jane Baldwin, Margaret Pryor, Evelyn Bretnall, Dorothy Nelson,
Doris Keegan, Dorothy Noble, Irene
Pamperin, Dorothy Hart, Dorothy
Sutor, Mary Louise O'Meara, Mrs.
Helen Haze and Miss Mary Mathilda
assisted in the serving.

Miss Lydia Bott entertained a
number of her friends at a Hallowe-e'en party Friday evening at her home, 425 North Tenth street. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion. The evening was spent in playing games and telling fortunes,
after which a delightful luncheon
was served. Those present were Emily Roach, Minnie Reichelt, Minnie Swords, Elsie Keller, Sadie O'Rourke
and Lydia Bott.

HALLOWEEN DINNER

Mrs. E. E. Dowe entertained at a
eight o'clock dinner last evening
for her sister, Miss Hattie Tappan.
There were ten present, the Misses Leta and Minnie Dobe, Hannah Kessler, Viola Chamberlain, Josephine Semsch, Lola Kemper, Dora Semsch, Frances Thiel, Josie Brown and Hattie Tappan. The guests were all in fancy costume. The rooms were decorated with a "dim religious light,"
giving a ghostly effect.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Mrs. J. J. Schmidt last night entertained in honor of Miss Antoinette Check, 1705 South Eighth street, who is to be a November bride. The evening was spent in music. The table was decorated with palms and cycas. Covers were laid for fourteen.

tions of our government with South American republics as compared with the relations of other countries to the South American countries.

Mrs. B. C. Smith read a very excellent paper on Colombia.

MAKE MONEY WITH POULTRY

AMERICAN POULTRY is a magazine devoted entirely to helping earnest men and women make a financial success of poultry raising. Its staff of writers is composed entirely of those who have made a practical, instead of theoretical, success of poultry farming, and who are glad to pass on the results of their hard earned experience to AMERICAN POULTRY
readers.

There are many pit-falls in the path of the novice which may be entirely avoided by those who will follow the teachings set forth in this magazine. It fully explains how to make a start, how to construct houses, coops, and other devices, how to get a large egg yield, how to cure and prevent disease, how to exhibit, how to get the top price for eggs, how to use incubators and hundreds of other points which everyone wishes to know. It explains the famous secret system through which poultrymen
have become rich and afterwards
sold for hundreds of dollars.

AMERICAN POULTRY is a large,
handsomely illustrated, monthly
journal, well printed on fine paper,
and should be found on file in the home of every poultry lover. No beginner in the poultry business should think of being without it. It will save him many times the small subscription price. The advanced poultry-man will also find it of great value,
the articles being varied in their scope.

SPECIAL OFFER. The regular price of AMERICAN POULTRY is 50c per year, but in order to introduce it to several thousand new readers, we will, for a short time,
give a large 200 page poultry book,
which is a complete guide in the poultry
business, absolutely free to everyone sending 50c for a yearly subscription or $1.00 for a three year
subscription to AMERICAN POUL-TRY. A trial six months' subscription (without book) will be sent for 25c. Never has so much been offered for so small a sum. Advantage of this offer should be taken at once.

The vesper service at the Young Women's Christian association tomorrow afternoon will be a joint meeting of the city and normal associations. The service will be held at the association building, Fourth and Cass streets, the hour being four o'clock.

Miss Lucy Helen Pierson, district
secretary for normal school associations in the Central Field of the national organization, will be here and will have charge of the meeting.
Miss Pierson was state student secretary for Wisconsin before the rearrangement of the districts which placed Wisconsin, together with Illinois, Michigan and Indiana, in the Central Field. Her headquarters are in Chicago. Miss Pierson has been in the city on numerous other occasions, and has many warm friends
here who will be glad of an opportunity to meet her again.

There will be special music at the meeting tomorrow, Mrs. Helen Harri-

A New Novel by Charles Marriott

Author of THE CATFISH

THE Wondrous Wife deals vitally with the people who are the rule, not the exception, depicting them as they really are, disclosing their aspirations, their motives, their emotions.

No finer character has been created in recent fiction than that of the heroine of this story, Margaret, The Wondrous Wife.

The leading critics in England and America have long ranked Charles Marriott among the great realistic-idealistic novelists. With the publication of The Catfish his audience has vastly increased.

to negotiate for the cession to Canada of the Alaskan Panhandle, according to dispatches received to-

ties of Juneau, Skagway, Ketchikan
and Treadwell and numerous fishing villages, besides nearly all of Alaska's quartz mines. Cession of this strip would also ruin Seattle's fishing industry.

STRIKERS HEARTILY WELCOME MILITIA

March Out to Meet Them
at Ludlow and Give Them a Rousing Demonstration

LUDLOW, Col., Nov. 1.—The long feared "invasion of Ludlow" by the militia was completed today. Instead of the resistance which pessimists had predicted, the soldiers met with a hearty welcome, extended by 2,000 coal strikers and their families who had been living in the tent colony here since the southern Colorado coal strike began.

One thousand infantry, cavalry and artillery, constituting all the militia in the coal district, assembled at 8 a. m. on the prairie two miles from Ludlow. The strikers and their families marched out over the prairie,
led by a miners band and singing the Colorado strike song to the air of "The Battle Cry of Freedom." Not a rifle was in sight in the strikers' ranks.

Singing lustily, the miners marched to a point a few hundred yards from the troops and formed two long lines. The soldiers, led by Adjutant General Chase, marched through the ranks of the strikers, who shouted, cheered and waved their hats in a wild demonstration.

The rest of the morning was devoted to fraternizing by soldiers and strikers.

ed the ball, by the help of a penalty,
to the Badger one yard line. A timely penalty for fifteen yards was all that saved the Cardinal goal.

The Gophers were penalized fifteen yards. Mattern skirted Ostie for 35 yards to Wisconsin's 30 yard line.
McAlmon spilled for five yard loss.
A forward pass was knocked down by Kessenich and Solon attempted a place kick from the 40 yard line. The ball was blocked by Buck Van Ghent failed to gain. Kessenich kicked forty yards to Tollefson. McAlmon made four. Shaughnessy was spilled. Minnesota was penalized five. Mc-Almon failed. Mattern made 20 yards. It was first down. A forward pass, Tollefson to Shaughnessy gave Minnesota the ball on Wisconsin's 13 yard line. McAlmon made three.
Mattern failed. Wisconsin was penalized, Minnesota getting the ball on Wisconsin's one yard line. Minnesota was penalized fifteen yards for holding. McAlmon made two. A forward pass was knocked down by Cummings. Lawler went in for Tollefson. An attempted place kick by Shaughnessy went wild. Wisconsin's ball on their own 20 yard line. Van Gent and Davey made three each. Kessenich punted.
Lawler returned to Wisconsin's 46
yard line. Solon made four yards.
Ostrom made first down. Mattern gained two yards and Lawler lost
two. An on-side kick by Lawler was recovered back of the goal line by Kessenich and the ball went to Wisconsin on their own 20 yard line.
Cummings gained two yards. Kessenich swung around Fournier for 15 yards.

QUIET HALLOWE'EN SAYS CHIEF WEBBER

Hallowe'en passed off in La Crosse last night with none of the old-time property destroying escapades by the city's youth.
According to Police Chief John Webber little or no damage was done to property, the most serious offenders being boys with bean blowers.
"Soaping windows was about the most serious offense Young America could be charged with," said the chief today, "and that was not as bad as in former years."

GROCERS TO FEAST

Coon Valley, drove to this city early this morning to be married by County Judge John Brindley.

The pair were accompanied by several friends who witnessed the ceremony in the county court room.
The bride was becomingly attired in a wedding gown of white crepe
over silk. They returned to Coon Valley today and will make their home there.

WISCONSIN WINS RUN

DEFEATS MINNESOTA IN CROSS-COUNTRY RACE BY SCORE
OF 21 POINTS TO 35

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 1.—Wisc-consin won the cross country run with Minnesota this morning by a score of 21 to 35, over the five mile, one hundred yard course. Bresnahan of Wisconsin finished first after a hard fight with Watson of the Gopher
team. The others finished as follows:

Harvey, Wisconsin, third; White,
Wisconsin, fourth; Becker, Wisconsin, fifth; Rapacz, Minnesota, sixth;
West, Minnesota, seventh; Perry,
Wisconsin, eighth; Montgomery,
Minnesota, ninth; Merrill, Wisconsin,
tenth; Hartney, Minnesota, eleventh.
Time, 27 minutes, seven seconds.
Score: Minnesota, 35; Wisconsin,
21.

CHINESE FRESHIE ESCAPES "DINK"

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 1.—A Chinese student, named Young, was before the student court at the state university Thursday for failure to wear the green cap of a freshman.
He gave the following defense:

"The green cap is a token of disgrace in China. When a man's wife is unfaithful to him, people point to him in scorn so he has to wear the green cap."

Young said that although his countrymen don the green cap here
to show their desire to live up to the Wisconsin customs, it is nevertheless with some qualm. His case was dismissed.

KILLING SKEETERS SERIOUS BUSINESS

"Swatting" mosquitoes in the Panama canal zone is more than an unpleasant part of a day's outing. It's a serious duty, carefully attended to
by the health department, which calls into service a small army of men to aid in the fight. Mosquitoes of every size suffer. The young ones and old, and even those not yet hatched in the ponds in the zone "get theirs." The method is to sprinkle every little patch of water with oil,
which spoils the breeding ground.
That it is effective is shown in the greatly decreased death rate in the zone, which was once one of the most unhealthy places on the globe.

HUNT WILL TOUR WITH HOTEL MEN

Mr. E. D. Hunt of the La Crosse Hotel will leave for Chicago to attend a meeting of the American Hotel Protective association. The association will make a tour of the principal cities of the east for educational purposes. In east state covered by the tour, joint meetings with the state associations will be held.
The tour starts Nov. 6th and continues until Nov. 20th.

Bank Statement

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The weekly
actual bank statement, issued today,
showed the following changes:
Surplus, decreased $11,404,300
Loans, increased 24,029,000
Specie, decreased 7,829,000
Legals, increased 499,000

Circulation, decreased 15,000
Surplus reserve now deficit 117,050
(Copyright, 1913, by New York Evening Post.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—With London's market closed, and therefore with no initiative from abroad; with yesterday's ten per cent call money rate still a mystery, and with the possibility of highly important developments in our Mexican relations
over Sunday, it was natural that the stock exchange should today
have virtually stopped doing business.

Transactions were wholly insignificant and changes of prices negligible. It is perhaps a fact of some importance that the market should, under such conditions have been merely apathetic and not weak; but this reflected what has, from the first,
been Wall street's attitude towards the Mexican imbroglio. There has been a continuous refusal to regard
that situation as desperate, though it has certainly seemed to be in a political sense, as a possible dominating influence on the financial position. Whether the controversy over the banking and currency bill, and the fear of trouble in the passes, are actually dominant influences on financial sentiment is a question which Wall street would probably find it difficult to answer.

JIM HILL BUYS
WISCONSIN LINE

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., Nov. 1.—
James J. Hill has secured the controlling interest in the Milwaukee & Mississippi railway now operated by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road under lease, and will take active control in 1915. Early in the year the railway magnate made several trips over the line which extends from this city to Milwaukee
and took options on terminal grounds
at Milton Junction, where it is proposed, a division point will be established.

The entire line of 200 miles is to be rebuilt, including roadbed, bridges
and equipment, and the accommodations made to fit the public need.
For several years this division has been the dumping ground for all the old rolling stock of the Milwaukee system.

Foreign Markets

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—The stock market opened dull.

11 a. m.—There was a little improvement in the market in both strength and activity towards the end of the first hour, but it seemed to represent nothing more than evening
up process by room traders, who were short and wanted to reduce their commitments over the end of the week.

The market closed dull.

Officials of the Game

Referee—Holderness.
Umpire—Benbrook.
Linesman—Haines.

Coach Juneau of Wisconsin:

"The boys are in good condition. They will fight hard to win. They will plug along and try to make up for all the hard luck they have experienced this year. All of the boys realize what depends upon them, and they will fight to the finish to make good."

Coach Williams of Minnesota:

"We have a good team and the players are in fine condition. I will make no forecast of the outcome."

MADISON, Nov. 1.—Wisconsin is ready to battle Minnesota in one of the deciding games for the western championship. The two teams of giants who will face each other on Camp Randall field today are both ready for the sound of the siren. Trained to the minute, the warriors representing two of the largest in-situations in the west await the call for the fray.

Both are Eager

The Badgers, with a proud record to uphold, are anxious to get into battle to show that they are still factors to be reckoned with in western football circles. The Gophers, with two humiliating games played with Wisconsin to avenge, and just as anxious. Coaches Juneau and Williams have taught the men all of the football that they know. When they line up on the gridiron one of the best games ever played in the west is expected.

Both Teams on Edge

Unfortunately both of these teams have suffered defeat this year. However, that does not detract for one moment from the showing that they will make today. The conference teams, aiming forward to one or two strong games toward the finish of the season, are always more slow of development than other western teams. Therefore the early season work of Minnesota and Wisconsin is not to be regarded too seriously. Enough is said when it is stated that they will be in the highest form today. The poor work of the Badgers in last week's game will have disappeared. The fumbling and lack of aggressiveness that allowed Nebraska to top off Minnesota will be noticeable by its absence. Two well-nigh perfect machines, two of the best in the country, will contend for the honors of the day.

GUNBOAT KILLS HOPE

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—An application to the street car company might land Charley Miller of San Francisco a new job as motorman, but he will probably have some difficulty in picking up real money in the fight game here, following his showing against Gunboat Smith last night. Smith put the former street car pilot out in three rounds.

BIRDMAN HUNTER FINED

HAMMONDSPONT, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The defense of C. R. Jacquith, Chicago aviator, that his aeroplane flew so much faster than a flock of wild ducks that he had to shoot some to avoid running over them did not impress Justice Benner here. Jacquith was found guilty of violating the law providing that fowl can only be taken from the land or from a blind or floating device to conceal the hunter, and was fined. The use of sail or powerboats is prohibited under the law.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—Three thousand Illinois rooters arriving early today from Champaign, swarmed into the University of Chicago field hopeful for a victory that would put the Orange and Blue in the fight for the western conference title.

Staggs men were 10 to 7 favorites though Illinois, because of their victories over Indiana and Northwestern, were not held lightly. Weather conditions were ideal.

AMES, Ia., Nov. 1.—The Nebraska football team in a special car reached here via Des Moines today accompanied by the college band. Even money is being wagered on the result of the game with Ames this afternoon. Coaches for both teams predicted a hard game.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 1.—Although both Drake and Washington are light, according to Missouri conference standards, and Drake has three of her best men out of the lineup, the game at Drake stadium this afternoon promises to be one of the best of the season.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Whether Yale would go through the entire series of preliminary games without having her goal line crossed or a point registered against her was one of the questions which aroused interest in the east today. The Blue will meet Colgate and expects a hard game.

Harvard took the field against Cornell with three regulars out of the lineup, but expected to have little trouble with the Ithacans.

An eleventh hour switch at Princeton sent the Tigers against Holy Cross with a new combination in the back field.

The first inter-sectional games came today with Syracuse lining up against Michigan and the Army meeting Notre Dame. The Army appeared to have a good afternoon's work cut out for it.

Pennsylvania and Penn State will meet in their annual clash. The Navy had nothing to fear from Lehigh and Dartmouth expected little more than a practice game from Amherst.

PACKEY VS. WELSH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 1.—Packey McFarland and Freddie Welsh have a signed agreement to box eight rounds at catch-weights before the National Athletic club here November 20, according to announcement today by Manager Frank Bishop.

A heart-to-heart talk with mother

Every mother of children growing up should save her time and health in every possible way. A little more rest each day will often prevent breakdown in the prime of life.

A McDougall Kitchen Cabinet is the greatest means of economizing time—it will actually save two to four hours' hard kitchen work each day. That means a full measure of rest and recreation—more time for sewing, mending, etc. The

McDougall Kitchen Cabinet

saves work by its wonderful complete compact convenience—by bringing everything into one place at the fingers' ends—saves
time by saving steps—
saves money by preventing waste and doctor's bills.

The McDougall is distinctly sanitary—is built better—has more conveniences than any other and costs little or no more than vastly inferior cabinets.

No housewife can afford to do without a McDougall Kitchen Cabinet, especially when the prices are so low.

WALLINGFORD AND BLACKIE DAW

Perhaps the most amusing and entertaining of the Wallingford stories are those which go to make up the latest Chester book—WALLINGFORD AND BLACKIE DAW.

Chester never repeats. Each tale is delightfully new, each escapade like nothing heretofore related.
The creative genius of the author, his fresh invention,
his clever plots, his dashing humor, his sprightly
dialogue, and racy slang are here seen in most glowing examples.

It doesn't cost a cent, all you have to do is to say to your merchant: "I want La Crosse Made Goods". The first time you say the magic words, you become a full-fledged member.

Keep your money at home. That's where it belongs. That's where it will do YOU the most good. Your money, used to develop the industries of some other city, never can, in the slightest way, be of any real or lasting benefit to you.

Other cities have thrived at the expense of La Crosse long enough. Now we're going to get together for a long, strong pull, and we're going to spend the money at home. After we get the habit, we're going to make other cities buy what we produce, and we are going TO GET BACK SOME OF THE MONEY that has been spent.

Every Man, Woman and Child Can Be A Booster

No matter where you go to spend your money, no matter how much or how little you are going to spend, insist that you get La Crosse made goods. If your merchant don't handle La Crosse made goods, he'll get you what you ask for if you insist hard enough.

Just to impress it on your mind, we want to again say that you need not hesitate to ask for La Crosse made goods. They are as good, if not a whole lot better, than similar goods made elsewhere. Dollar for Dollar, you'll get full value. Look For The La Crosse Label in The Advertisements of the Local Merchants.
